Teste contextual.

Because components often nest within one another, each component in the domain-partitioned architecture shown in Figure 9-3 (for example, CatalogCheckout) may use a persistence library and have a separate layer for business rules, but the top-level partitioning will still revolve around domains.

The bird built a nest in the tree.